International Journal of Dermatology

---

Source: Wiley-Blackwell

ISSN: 00119059

EISSN: 13654632

The International Journal of Dermatology was founded in 1962 to provide dermatologists with current information about the diagnosis and treatment of skin diseases. With a distinguished international editorial board, the Journal emphasizes a global approach to continuing medical education for physicians and other health care givers who are interested in various problems relating to the skin. Issues of the Journal are often created with a general theme to emphasize topics of current concern. The Journal accepts contributions in the following categories: cameo clinical trial commentary correspondence, education morphology, pharmacology and therapeutics, proceedings & transactions, reminiscence report review, and tropical medical rounds.
