Features:

* Provides a broad scope of approaches and solutions to traumatic pain management from the scene of the accident to the rehabilitation phase.

* The real clinical cases place the block techniques in a real context, considering each patient as a whole rather than just a limb to be blocked.

* Covers controversial management topics to encourage consideration of the pros and cons for various 'hot topics' such as nerve blocks in those at risk from complications.