This second installment of The Year in Diabetes and Obesity review series includes thought-provoking reviews on central nervous system control of glucose and energy metabolism; stearoyl CoA desaturase in obesity and metabolism; circadian disruption and metabolic dysfunction; incretin hormones; metabolic syndrome, adipokines, and dementia; interventions for the prevention or reversal of type 1 diabetes; the role of intestinal microbiome in humans and mice with type 1 diabetes; building smarter and better insulins; RAGE - a multi-ligand receptor in chronic diseases; diabetes, cancer risk, and metformin - connections of metabolism and cell proliferation; prevalence of diabetes in Asia; and prioritization of care in adults with diabetes and co-existing chronic conditions.

Publication Year: 2012
Edition: 1st
Author/Editor: Ahima, Rexford S.; Powers, Alvin C.
Publisher: Wiley
ISBN: 978-1-573-31847-1
Platform: Ovid
Product Type: Book
Speciality: Endocrinology & Metabolism
Language: English
Pages: 200
Illustrations: 0