This diverse collection of poems first published in the American Journal of Nursing will inspire and bring comfort and joy to nurses of all ages.

These works, written for such celebrated nurses like Florence Nightingale as well as other extraordinary nurses, delve deep into the heart and soul of nursing. The style, the rhyme, the quality of the poems varies greatly, but each is cherished for its valued link to the history of nursing, which has shaped today’s nursing profession. You will find inspiration, love, and -above all - care on every page.
