Becoming a Word Learner: A Debate of Lexical Acquisition

This is a debate on lexical acquisition by some of the most prominent and influential psychologists in the area of language development.

Each author provides, in the strongest possible terms, his or her own theory of language acquisition. In the final commentary chapter, a lively exchange between competing colleagues further sharpens differences and, in some cases, brings consensus.

Publication Year 2000
Edition 1st
Author/Editor Golinkoff, Roberta Michnick; Hirsh-Pasek, Kathryn; Bloom, Lois; Smith, Linda B.; Woodward, Amanda L.; Akhtar, Nameera; Tomasello, Michael; Hollich, George
Publisher Oxford University Press (OUP)
ISBN 978-0-195-13032-4
Platform Ovid
Product Type Book
Speciality Child Development Psychology
Education Psychology
Perception
Language English
Pages 216
Illustrations 21