One-click access to more than 100 books covering numerous animal types and relevant issues.

CABI is one of the world’s leading sources of full-text scholarly literature in agriculture, public health, and food and environmental sciences.

The CABI Animal & Veterinary Science Book Collection is comprised of more than 100 books covering numerous animal types—from mammals to insects to amphibians—as well as important issues surrounding the production and care of livestock.

This collection is updated continuously as additional books become available.

Titles included:

- Agricultural Biotechnology and Intellectual Property Protection
- Agriculture, Hydrology and Water Quality
- Amino Acids in Animal Nutrition
- Animal Abuse: Helping Animals and People
- Animal Domestication and Behaviour
- Animal Health and Welfare in Organic Agriculture
- Applied Animal Endocrinology
- Aquaculture and Fisheries Biotechnology
- Aquaculture and Fisheries Biotechnology; Genetic Approaches, 2nd Edition
- Aquatic Insects: Challenges to Populations
- Areawide Pest Management: Theory and Implementation
- Avian Gut Function, Health and Diseases
- Bacteria from Fish and Other Aquatic Animals
- Bioassays of Entomopathogenic Microbes and Nematodes
- Biological Control Programmes in Canada, 1981-2001
- Biology of Breeding Poultry. Poultry Science Symposium Series, No. 29
- Biorational Tree-Fruit Pest Management
- Biostatistics for Animal Science
- Breeding for Disease Resistance in Farm Animals, 3rd Edition
- Camel Meat and Meat Products
- China’s Livestock Revolution
- Crocodiles
- Crop Pollination by Bees
- Dairy Goats Feeding and Nutrition
- Dairy Herd Health
- Dairy Sheep Nutrition
- Deafness in Cats and Dogs
- Dietary Supplements for the Health and Quality of Cultured Fish
- Digestive Physiology of Pigs
- Diseases and Disorders of Finfish in Cage Culture
- Dogs, Zoonoses and Public Health
- Dogs, Zoonoses and Public Health