Asia-Pacific Journal of Clinical Oncology is endorsed by the Chinese Society of Clinical Oncology, the Clinical Oncological Society of Australia and the Singapore Society of Oncology.

The Asia-Pacific Journal of Clinical Oncology is a multidisciplinary journal of oncology that aims to be a forum for facilitating collaboration and exchanging information on what is happening in different countries of the Asia Pacific region in relation to cancer treatment and care. The Journal publishes pre-clinical studies, translational research, clinical trials and epidemiological studies, describing new findings of clinical significance. Clinical studies, particularly prospectively designed clinical trials, are encouraged.
