British Journal of Ophthalmology

Rely on Ovid as the trusted solution that transforms research into results

British Journal of Ophthalmology is a fully international journal covering all aspects of clinical ophthalmology and the visual/ophthalmic sciences. The Journal was founded in 1917 by the amalgamation of the Royal London (Moorfields) Ophthalmic Hospital Reports with the Ophthalmoscope and the Ophthalmic Record. Main features include articles on both clinical and laboratory sciences, a series of articles in the form of perspectives, providing brief up to the minute reviews and Commentary - an occasional series challenging current dogma and opinion.
